Zach Samuel presents a contemporary country-pop project, driven by a warm and distinctive voice, strong songwriting, and a clearly defined artistic identity.

A full-tuition scholarship recipient at Berklee College of Music, where he is pursuing a double major in Songwriting & Performance, he moves between Quebec, Boston, and Nashville, developing his craft in line with North American industry standards.

As a co-writer, he has contributed to songs that reached the Top 10 on the Canadian Indie Country Countdown (It's 3 AM Somewhere), as well as #1 on Stingray Music's Franco Country chart (Yé 3 h du matin quequ'part).
